Background [ edit ] Liverpool had the majority of the possession up to this point, with Dor tmund content to counter-attack.[16] The tactic worked as Dortmund took lead in the 61st minute. Sigfried Held passed to Lothar Emmerich on the left hand side o f the pitch, Emmerich played a lofted pass to Held, who volleyed the ball into t he goal to give Dortmund a 1 0 lead.[14] Seven minutes later Liverpool were leve l. Peter Thompson ran down the left hand side of the pitch and passed to Roger H unt who scored to level the match at 1 1. The linesman on the left-hand side of the pitch signalled to the referee that the ball had gone out of play, yet the r eferee ignored him and allowed the goal to stand.[14] There were few chances for either side until the end of the half when Liverpool had a chance to win the ma tch, but Hunt&#39;s shot missed. With the scores still level at 1 1, the match w ent into extra-time.[13]
