<p&gt;&lt;/p&gt;&lt;p&gt;The news was announced on Sunday by Microsoft s gami We are pleased to announce that Microsoft and 🗝 ng head Phil Spencer.
PlayStation have signed a binding agreement to keep Call of Duty on PlayStation following the acquisition of Activision Blizzard, Spencer 🗝 tweeted.
We look forward to a future where players globally have more choice to play their r favorite games. </p&gt; <p&gt;A Microsoft spokesperson &#128477; subsequently confirmed to The Verge that the deal would last for a term of 10 years, and covers Call of 🗝 not any other Activision Blizzard games. That puts it on a par with agreements Microsoft had previously 🗝 signed with Nintendo, Nvidia, and others.</p&qt;
<p&gt;Microsoft president Brad Smith also commented, saying, From Day One of this acquisition, we ve been 🗝 committed to addressing the concerns of regulators, platform and game developers, and consumers. Even after we cross th e finish line 🗝 for this deal s approval, we will remain focused on ens uring that Call of Duty remains available on more platforms and 🗝 for m ore consumers than ever before.
                               </p&gt;
<p&gt;The signing of the deal marks the end of a long stalemate, during which Microsoft 🗝 made repeated public offers to keep Call of Duty on PlaySt ation, while Sony dismissed these and instead attempted to use 🗝 its le verage with regulators to sink Microsoft sR$68.7 billion acquisition of Activisi on Blizzard completely. I don t want a new Call of 🗝 Duty deal. I just
